Dedication

To His Excellency, the Most Reverend Edwin V. O'Hara, Bishop-Elect of Kansas City, the editors respectfully dedicate this issue of The Teresian, in honor of his formal installation, at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, Thursday, June the eighth.

Still feeling the loss of their beloved late Bishop Lillis, Catholic youths of Kansas City confidently look to their newly appointed "religious shepherd who walks with his flock" for inspiration, guidance and friendship.

Ruth Dugan Crowned "Queen of the May"

Ruth Dugan, a sophomore at St. Teresa's college, won the coveted honor of "Queen of the May" for 1939. At the close of a colorful procession around the campus, she was crowned in St. Teresa's college auditorium, Sunday afternoon, May 21, by Mary Ellen Dunn, president of the college council. After her coronation as queen, she placed a wreath of lilies of the valley on a statue of the Blessed Virgin, the patroness of the Sodality, under whose auspices the crowning of the May queen is held annually at St. Teresa's. The Rev. Arthur M. Tighe of St. Patrick's church delivered the address to the Sodalists.

Two maids of honor, Dorothy Caulfield and Mary Jane Sanders accompanied the queen. The attendants were Grace Conrad, Betty Murphy, Mary Leona Doyle, Mary Elizabeth Arnold, Kathleen Aylward, Regina Dalton, Mary Louise Aylward and Margie O'Gara.

Bishop O'Hara A Friend of Youth

GUEST EDITORIAL

By ANN SARACHON HOOLEY
National Council of Catholic Women

When a student of St. Teresa's college asked me to write something about Bishop O'Hara for the school paper, I agreed with alacrity because of my own enthusiasm, for I had remembered writing to His Excellency several weeks ago on hearing of his appointment, "I am happy for you because I think Kansas City is the grandest spot in the country, but most of all I am happy for the people of the dioceses who are to know your leadership and inspiration, as well as your friendship."

Yet when it comes to recounting the specific instances in which this leadership has been evidenced, I am confronted with the difficulty of knowing which of the many to mention. First of all, naturally, there comes to mind Bishop O'Hara's service to the National Council of Catholic Women which is the lay organization of the National Catholic Welfare Conference set up to channelize the program of the Bishops of the United States. As Father O'Hara, director of the Rural Life Bureau of the Welfare Conference at Washington, he came in close contact with the National Headquarters. His genuine interest in the needs and potentialities of the laity as a part of the Mystical Body enabled him to make a great contribution to the progress of this National Women's Council. He is in demand, not only as a speaker at the large meetings and conventions, but as a trusted adviser in the small conferences and committee meetings where problems are to be solved.

He has helped many Councils to set up a diocesan program of religious vacation schools. Later as Chairman of the Archconfraternity of Christian Doctrine, he directed a program of catechetical instruction throughout the

Archbishop John J. Glennon To Preside; Pontifical Mass Will Be Celebrated By Bishop Charles H. LeBlond

The Most Rev. Edwin Vincent O'Hara, D.D., will be formally installed as bishop of Kansas City, at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, at 10 o'clock, Thursday morning, June 8, the feast of Corpus Christi. His Excellency, the Most Rev. John Joseph Glennon, S.T.D., will preside. The Most Rev. Charles H. Le Blond, D.D., of St. Joseph, Missouri, will be the celebrant of the Pontifical High Mass, which will be offered after Bishop O'Hara is enthroned. Bishop O'Hara is the third bishop of Kansas City. The late Reverend Bishop Thomas F. Lillis, D.D., and the beloved Bishop John Joseph Hogan, D.D., were his predecessors.

The Bishop-Elect is expected to arrive in Kansas City, by a special train, Wednesday, shortly after noon; he will be accompanied by an official escort of four priests, delegated to meet His Excellency at Helena, Montana, and by a group of priests and laity numbering about 200, who will greet him in Omaha.

The bishop will go direct to the episcopal residence, 301 East Armour boulevard, where the consultants of the diocese will officially receive him into the diocese.

A procession of acolytes, priests, monsignors, abbots, bishops and archbishops will precede the bishop as he enters the Cathedral. Boy Scout troops from the parishes and from the Kansas City Boys' Orphan Home will form a guard of honor along the line of march.

Following the services, a dinner for the bishops and clergy will be served at the Hotel Muehlebach. A reception for the public will be held on the campus of Rockhurst college, Thursday evening.

Bishop O'Hara will attend the National Catholic Social Action Congress, June 12, at Cleveland, Ohio. He will return to Kansas City to attend the annual retreat of the clergy to be held the following week at Atchison.

St. Teresa's Prepares For 73rd Commencement, June 8

Msgr. McDonald To Confer Degrees And Diplomas

Twenty-six college students will receive Associate in Arts degrees and twenty-four academy students will be awarded high school diplomas during the 73rd commencement exercises at St. Teresa's college and academy, Thursday, June 1, at 3:30 p.m., in the St. Teresa's auditorium. The Rev. John C. Friedl, S.J., assistant professor of philosophy at Rockhurst college, will give the address. The Very Rev. Monsignor Thomas B. McDonald, pastor of Visitation church, will confer the degrees and the diplomas.

The graduates of the college, wearing black caps and gowns, and the graduates of the academy, in white caps and gowns, will occupy the front seats of the auditorium.

The program:
Processional—March from "Athalie" Mendelssohn—St. Teresa's College Orchestra, N. DeRubertis, director.
Address to Graduates—The Rev. John C. Friedl, S.J.
Orchestra—To the Sunrise—Schumann; Minuet in B flat Major—Haydn.

Conferring of degrees and diplomas—The Very Rev. Monsignor Thomas B. McDonald.

Recessional—Festal March—Cadman, Saint Teresa's College Orchestra.

MASS FOR GRADUATES

Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, the graduates will attend Mass and receive Holy Communion in the college chapel. The Reverend Thomas E. Donnelly of Visitation church, will be the celebrant.

After the Mass, the graduates will be the guests of the faculty, at a breakfast in the college dining hall.

News Ahead Of Time Given By Viola Fann

Station "Proph S-E", at the corner of St. Teresa and Alumnae Streets, just ten years outside the college.

It's May 31, 1939, and time again to hear from your "bringer-up-to-timer" on this program figuring with news that is news ahead of time.

Greetings, people! At last it's time to broadcast. And thinking of how time passes you will be reading of the Senator Bagley Bill that was passed this week. Senator Bagley has been violating that same traffic rule in K. C. and she has had a bill passed to set the speed limit up again.

Has anyone seen the Cliffords? They came up from the "Lone Star" state this week to attend the World's Fair in Kansas City. The former Dorothy Caulfield and her family were greeted graciously by Lucy Spear Webber, official World's Fair hostess. Lucy has appointed Ruth Evelyn Dugan, beautiful raven-haired model of hats seen in many recent magazines, in charge of the escort bureau.

The florists around town have orders to get "puhlyntly" of lilies for a "puhlyntly" big wedding on June 1. Rosemary Haward the famed emotional actress, is the Mrs.-to-be.

Tradition Observed

Grace Conrad, prominent socialite and critic, paid the traditional "take your bridal party to St. Teresa's after the ceremony" visit yesterday. We can remember when it almost brought tears to the ladies eyes to give up the old custom of showing off her party dress on prom night. Replacing Grace, a new columnist of dance fame, Helen Nigro, featured with Bernie Goodman's orchestra, will "swing out" in a gossip column of a Chicago weekly.

We hope you have received one of the ten complimentary copies of the Hauser-Ucker book that will be launched on the comedy-fiction horizon. Eleanor does a neat job with the cartoons of Baby Black Sheep, and Betty Ucker made a sensation with a new type of pun-making.

There is a new field down in Kentucky that some of you unoccupied girls might find interesting. It is called the McMahonites, a religious order founded by a former Kansas Citian, Marianne McMahon. However, she herself never joined; she became figuratively a Man-ite and is the gracious wife of a "Blue Grasser".

In Radio Center

It just occurred to us that another Mary Ann has not been heard from of late. We hope that Mary Ann Wallerstedt doesn't assume that horrid "when-I-write-I-go-into-solitude" attitude. But we would have frazzled nerves too, if we turned out three hundred plays per annum. The whole city is waiting for the curtain to rise on "Hitler Goes Hollywood," and we wish you success, M. A. W.

Sarah Lee McNally has recently concluded six broadcasts with Phil Spitalny. Our coronet soloist is now in Radio Center where she will soon play Professor De Rubertis' "Charm Symphony". Likewise along the New York cycle of prominence, we take note of Carmen Hurtado, foreign correspondent. We saw her last week with a tall dark diplomatic son of a diplomat. Who knows—maybe we will link a couple of countries together soon with our Caren "Lohengren-ing" it down a rose-petaled aisle.

Miss Kathleen Laughlin, who recently did extensive work for the Sociological Society in the lines of unemployment, has just been made a member of the National Business Women's Club.

Twenty-Six Receive Association in Arts Degrees

We've seen Betty Murphy breezing along in one of those pedigreed roadsters by the side of an ever-so-good-looking husband whom Betty met while teaching at a fashionable girls' school in Lee's Summit.

Catherine Hix has just taken over a modernistic library as a hobby, the furnishings of which were designed by her friend Betty Kerlin. The library is a just credit to both of them.

Special bulletin interrupts this program . . . Stand by, please. This is one of the high lights of the day and we feel you should not miss it. Go ahead!

"The last cornerstone in the fifth new building at St. Teresa's has been lifted . . . we will let you hear the sound of the stone as it is put in place. One of the proudest people today is Mother Marcella, former president of the college.

Hobbies Are Starters

Resuming our program, we wish to thank Teresa Kouba, the technician here at Proph-S-E, for the time signals on that flash. Her career began as a hobby. More power to hobbies! Speaking of hobbies reminds us of the dietician, Mary Agnes Haugh, who began her career also as a hobby. We always thought she was on a diet from the appearance of her trim figure, but no—"I eat what I like and play lots of tennis", says Mary Agnes.

Mary Lynch flew into Kansas City today. Her first solo flight took place at Floyd Bennett field last year, remember. She wrecked five planes at that time but didn't scratch her own. We heard a rumbling in the air the other day and decided to investigate. Mary Lynch was not making the noise, but it was Mary Ellen Dunn, "the government voice machine" campaigning for democracy. This was not her purpose, as you probably already have guessed. She was testing a voice amplifying machine invented by Wanda Ligeko. Miss Ligeko resolved to invent the device after she attended an Olympic Game and couldn't hear what was going on.

Somewhere along here we must tell you what is happening to our young lawyer's assistant, Opal Bouklakos, who caused much stir this week when she corrected her own employer in the court room, on a point of law, and made him lose the case.

We notice a number of Lois Nelson's creative designs appearing in Vogue's or Harper's Bazaar . . . along with Schiatarelli's, etc. Lois has a distinctive and attractive touch to her clothes creations.

Fifty Graduated

The high school girls are: Kathleen Aylward, Betty Baldwin, Margie Cords, Rita Crooks, Regina Dalton, Helen Dierks, Martha Dwyer, Patricia Gibson, Mariann Gier, Patricia Hader, Mary Elizabeth Kissick, Maureen Lenaghan, Katherine Matthews, Mary Catherine McMahon, Loretto McGovern, Joan Miller, Flora Ann Moore, Kathleen O'Connor, Mary Reynolds, Peggy O'Neill, Dolly Serak, Jane Stanton, Marcella Summers, Dorothy Ziegler.

The Charlotte Alderson we knew back in K. C. has just gone to her country home for the summer. Adelaide, the oldest of her five girls, will enter St. Teresa's Academy in the fall and Charlotte just "cannot do anything with her hair" which is turning gray.

Wandering into Sak's at Fifth Avenue this week we were no little surprised to see Sandra James modeling sport-clothes. Of course we recognized her immediately as our one-time piano player, Mary Jane Sanders.

That winds up our social report for the day: Before leaving let's make our entry for the day: Dear diary . . . all of our personalities have been women, and all from the '39 class of St. Teresa's College. Who would have wanted to predict so many quality spot light figures from the class ten years ago—May 31, 1939. Well this is Viola J. Fann, your reporter, signing off and setting my stop-watch for this time next year when Station Proph S-E will again bring you the results of my snoopidity along the lines of these same people. Station Proph S-E at the corner of St. Teresa and Alumnae Streets, just ten years outside of college, signing over to your next speaker.

COLLEGE CLASS SONG

Standing Together, always we'll be,
True and faithful, Alma Mater,
To thee we pledge loyalty.
Though we part now, from your halls
To wide paths so far away
Always we'll love you, yes as today.

From thee forever, now we depart;
As we sing here, Alma Mater,
We are sad and there's grief in our heart.

God keep us, and watch us, and guide our parting way;
God Bless St. Teresa's now, and for aye.

Mary Ann Wallerstedt.

COLLEGE CLASS WILL

We, the class of 1939, being in our usual state of chaos, do hereby draw up this last will and testament.

To Mother M. Marcella and to all the members of the faculty we leave our sincere appreciation of their untiring efforts, and to the girls we leave behind us, we will the following:

Mariane McMahon, to the delight of her family classmates, leaves her pointless jokes to Virginia Dugan and Mary Leona Doyle.

Mary Lynch leaves her sweet serenity to Betty Keohler and Jane Fitzgerald.

Mary Ann Wallerstedt parts with a portion of her brain, all pickled and preserved, to Mary Ann Walsh and Pearl Ryan.

Charlotte Alderson leaves her love for chemistry to Mary O'Connor and Carolyn Cavanaugh.

Ruth Dugan leaves her Sociology notes to Eleanor May and Lucille Smith.

Mary Jane Sanders leaves all her excuses for being late, good and bad, to Meredith Bruns and Mary Evelyn Kelley.

Mary Ellen Dunn leaves her resonant voice to Mayme Di Maggio, and Eulalia Moser.

Sarah Lee McNally leaves her Psychology comments to Rita Mae and Rosemary Allen.

Catherine Hix leaves her joyous outlook on life to Mary Catherine Strub and Docia Bahner.

Betty Ucker leaves her giggle to Rosemary Crahan and Martha Line.

Helen Nigro leaves her new cork shoes to Jane Lawler and La Rue Kemp.

Lois Nelson leaves her sun-tan to Louise Nigro and Jacqueline Wiss.

Teresa Kouba leaves her pleasant disposition to Eleanor Higgins and Margaret Stevens.

Opal Bouklakos leaves her drawl to Shirley Hohl and Lois Romer.

Carmen Hurtado leaves her spirit of helpfulness to Virginia Baumgardner and Jeanette Ozman.

Mary Agnes leaves her boyish stride to Edith Funkhauser.

Marifrances leaves her rebellious spirit to Genevieve Storms and Margaret Schairer.

Kathleen Laughlin leaves her surprised air to Jane McCabe and Mary Katherine Farnen.

Betty Murphy leaves her artistic ability to Teresa Frass and Betty Eisenman.

Wanda Ligeko leaves her front seat in Religion class to Nellie Lu Clark and Mary Jane Eimer.

Grace Conrad leaves her slim figure to Mary Elizabeth Arnold.

Viola Fann leaves her ability to balance the budget to Bernadine Loftus.

To this will our names we sign:
The sophomore class of thirty-nine.

Signed: Mary Jane Sanders, Betty Murphy.

K.C.S.U. Honors Blessed Virgin As Queen

Rockhurst Host To Union Sunday, May 21

Four hundred and fifty members of the Kansas City Sodality Union took part in the ceremonies which were held at Rockhurst College, Sunday, May 21, in honor of the Blessed Virgin.

Four students represented St. Teresa's college. Mary Lynch, secretary of the Kansas City Sodality union and prefect of the St. Teresa's college Sodality, was one of the queen's maids of honor; Mary Ann Wallerstedt, Carolyn Cavanaugh, and Bernadine Loftus took part in the living Rosary.

The Sodalists assembled at the Mason-Halpin house before the procession to the stadium. At the stadium, prayers were said and hymns were sung in honor of the Blessed Virgin. As the Rosary was recited a living Rosary formed the guard of honor before a shrine of the Blessed Virgin, which had been erected on the field.

After the crowning of a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary, by Miss Pat McCool, a student at St. Mary's hospital school of nursing, the students formed a procession to a temporary altar. There, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given by the Very Rev. Monsignor James N. V. McKay, assisted by the Rev. G. A. McDonald, S. J., Associate editor of the "Queen's Work", a national Sodality paper. Bernard J. Monks and J. Wells Averill, scholastics at Rockhurst college also assisted.

The K.C.S.U. is composed of the Sodalities of Rockhurst and St. Teresa's colleges, St. Joseph's and St. Mary's hospital school of nursing and St. Teresa's, Loretto, St. Agnes, St. Vincent's, St. Mary's, Independence, St. Aloysius academy and Our Lady of Sorrows Sodality.

"Pomander Walk" Staged By Seniors

The senior class of St. Teresa's academy presented "Pomander Walk", a comedy in three acts by Louis N. Parker, in the St. Teresa's college auditorium, May 15, under the direction of Mrs. John Feist, professor of dramatics at St. Teresa's.

Seniors were chosen for the roles, in accordance with the usual custom.

A light comedy, "Pomander Walk" is concerned with lives and loves of the residents of a quaint English hamlet. As their affairs reach a climax of complication, each reacts in his individual way. Finally, the incidents, which caused the difficulties are ironed out, leaving all the characters contented and happy.

The cast was as follows: Prologue, Pat Gibson; The Eyesore, Kathleen Aylward; Admiral Sir Peter Antrobous, Pat Haden; Jerome Brooke-Hoskyn, Betty Baldwin; Jim, Martha Dwyer; Basil Pringle, Jane Stanton; Jane, Regina Dalton; Mrs. Pamela Poskett, Marianne Gier; Mme. Lucie Lachesnais, Loretta McGovern; Mlle. Marjolaine Lachesnais, Flora Ann Moore; Nanette, Mary Catherine McMahon; Miss Ruth Pennymint, Kathleen O'Connor; Miss Barbara Pennymint, Joan Miller; The Rev. Jacob Sternroed, Maureen Leneghan; The Hon. Caroline Thring, Rita Crooks; Lackey, Katherine Matthews; John Sayle, 10th Baron Offord, Dorothy Ziegler; Lieut. The Hon. John Sayle, R. N., Mary Reynolds; The Muffin Man, Peggy O'Neill; The Lamplighter, Helen Dierks.

The Tip-Off

Those high jumpers are at it again. The sky's the limit. If you don't believe it, just cast your glances toward La Boy and McMahon some Tuesday or Thursday.

They are not alone in the ranks, however; another jumper was a little too generous in her landing. How is your ankle, Aggie?

There happens to be some tennis players on the St. Teresa's courts who, if they keep on, will cause Helen Wills Moody much anxiety. Miss Oszman is the outstanding enthusiast in the field.

While on the subject of tennis, the traditional "Little Birdie" told us that Grace Conrad intends to enter the city tournament this summer. We will not make any prediction about the outcome, but good luck any way Gracie.

With all the talk of graduation and diplomas we have not much more to say about sports, but come see us again next year and we will give you the sportiest news sports.

The procession began at 3:00 p.m. Mary Elizabeth Kissick, president of the academy student council, carrying the academy banner, led the procession. She was accompanied by four ribbon bearers, Dorothy Ziegler, prefect of the academy Sodality carried the Sodality banner. During the entire procession the college and the academy choirs sang hymns in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Queen of the May. The college freshmen and sophomores, in black caps and gowns followed the choirs.

Mary Ellen Dunn, president of the college student council, and Mary Lynch, prefect of the college Sodality, led the queen's retinue.

The maids of honor and the attendants, wearing floor length dresses of pastel colors, preceded the queen, who wore a white organza dress, and the traditional blue and white satin train. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses. The trainbearers were, Gary Gier, Jimmie Hughes, Tommie Walsh, and Leonard Quigley.

As the procession entered the college, the students sang "Mother dearest, Mother fairest."

After the coronation, the ceremonies closed with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Moor Wind

Our title seems just a speck weird with all these movies about the ghostly winds that howl across the English moors, giving us the shivers-but now to dispel the mood with news of our latest and gayest:

Honors for the title "Biggest Event" are divided between the Junior-Senior Prom and "Pomander Walk".

Alphabetically "Pomander" comes first, so:

Three cheers for Mrs. Feist, whose productions are a credit to St. Teresa's dramatic department. All the crews did excellent work and we're grateful to them for their big part in making "P. W." a success.

Now the Prom: We had forgotten how super delectable Jean Harsha and Mary Louise Strub are. Jean in black with just a suggestion of sophistication, and Mary Louise, in purely ingenue white, were among the loveliest of the loveliest.

The answer to a maiden's prayer came to the prom but Mary Louise Aylward had him tied up in pink ribbons and wouldn't let go. Oh! for a scissors, my kingdom for a scissors!

Betty Dunavan can't imagine where she could have been while they were playing "Our Love". She looked forward to dancing to that all evening, and then missed it.

Random Shots:—Sorry as we are to see Dorothy Ziegler and her officers relinquish their places at the helm of the Sodality, we are looking forward to a wonderful year with Margaret Schild, Mary Katherine Baty, Mattie Pat Campbell, and Mary Catherine Halpin.

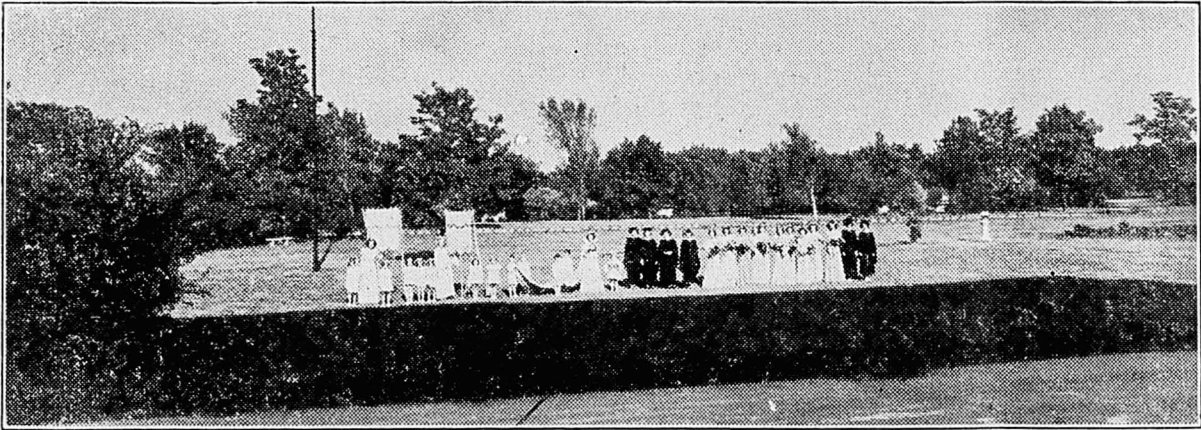

Attend Convention

"Catholic Leaders, Show Your Worth, May 6 at Leavenworth" was the motto of this year's Kansas State Sodality Convention. Sister Anne Raphael of St. Joseph's Hospital and Sister M. Adeline and twenty students from St. Teresa's college and academy attended.

The convention opened with Mass and with a sermon delivered by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S.J., at the Leavenworth Cathedral.

A general session was held at the Absallah Theater following the Mass. Father Lord gave the opening address.

A Detail of The May Procession

After the coronation, the Queen and her immediate retinue posed on the east campus. Mary Ellen Dunn and Mary Lynch are at the head of the group. Next are the maids of honor, Dorothy Caulfield and Mary Jane Sanders, followed by light attendants to the Queen.

Congratulations To Our Graduates

May GOD'S LOVING PRESENCE bless you every moment of your lives, comfort you in every trial, and aid you in every difficulty. Guided and protected by the HOLY SPIRIT, may you attain the end of your goal, ETERNAL HAPPINESS. "Deo Adiuvante Non Timendum".

Sketches of Famous People

Here are character glimpses of our twenty-six college graduates:

Charlotte Alderson has always co-operated one hundred per cent with school activities. In her classes she has really been a source of animation.

Marifrances Bagley as treasurer of the freshman class successfully handled the money, and what is even more to her credit, actually managed to collect class dues.

Opal Bouklakos: No girl with more patience or of more easy-going temperament ever entered S.T.C. She was vice-president of the C.S.M.C. in her freshman year and secretary this year. Her most brilliant accomplishment is her care of Sister Annetta's art room.

St. Teresa's will miss Dorothy Caulfield's piping little voice and willingness to lend a helping hand. She has attended St. Teresa's for four years, and has been a very active Sodalist.

Grace Conrad is our class president and a very good one she is indeed. She played roles in "Ladies in Waiting", and "Jane Eyre".

Our beautiful May Queen is Ruth Dugan who has climbed the steps of St. Teresa's for the last six years.

Mary Ellen Dunn, another six-year, is president of the Student Council. She was freshman class president and played leading roles in the college plays.

Viola Fann, our very business-like girl, has been a very faithful portress for the past two years. This year she filled the very obnoxious position of class treasurer.

Mary Agnes Haugh is a girl who is everybody's friend. Every day she has taken her stand in the library assisting Miss Finnegan.

Eleanor Hauser is the tall, blond girl, who can really say clever things. She holds the affection of her friends.

Rosemary Haward is an omnitalented student, excelling in art, music, and dramatics. Her portrayal of "Jane Eyre" was the envy of every dramatic student.

Catherine Hix is another very capable library worker. She was secretary of the Sodality for 1938-39.

Carmen Hurtado was the treasurer of C.S.M.C. in her freshman year. She has always been the quiet type, and a very industrious, loyal student.

Betty Kerlin's back stage help has been partly responsible for the success of the two college plays produced during the last two years. Nor does she confine herself to plays, but in every school project she is always ready, willing and able.

Teresa Kouba is one of those industrious students of whom St. Teresa's can be justly proud. She has been a perfect model to girls who really desire to learn.

Kathleen Laughlin is a sure, capable, and ready library assistant, and secretary of the sophomore class.

Wanda Ligeko is a very apt French student, in fact, a very apt student in every class, a girl who really studies.

"Service with a smile" has been Mary Lynch's motto. Any day, any time, she could be seen lending a helping hand. She has been a most capable prefect, vice-president, of St. Teresa's Sodality and secretary of the Kansas Sodality Union.

Mary Ann McMahon is the student whose gurgling, giggling has always been heard all through the halls of the school. She is the president of country, a work which he is still actively developing.

You who are students will be interested in your new Bishop's achievements in the field of school administration. As a priest in the Archdiocese of Portland, he is still remembered for his work with the parochial schools. As a pastor in Eugene, the home of the State University of Oregon, he associated with faculty and students, sharing his wealth of Catholic philosophy, but at the same time learning first-hand the problems of the college student. He has organized in Great Falls a Catholic college of which the diocese is justly proud.

Some time ago while in Montana, I was attending a large meeting of young people who were considering questions for the year's program. The talk, which was very informal, ran of course to questions of personal conduct, morals, and the things which interest young people. In the midst of the meeting, the Bishop entered. He was welcomed heartily and with great respect, but requested them to continue. I was extremely interested to notice that as they resumed the discussion, the air of informality and frankness had altered not one bit, because they apparently knew from former experience that his interest and his concern were identical with theirs.

A thing which is entirely foreign to Bishop O'Hara is inactivity. He is himself a tireless worker with infinite capacity for organization. However, he seems to work in the spirit of the "Eternality of the Church" with great patience and fair consideration for the obstacles and difficulties which human relationships involve.

This is by no means a list of Bishop O'Hara's achievements for his interests are as wide as the interests of the Church Universal; his sympathy and understanding are as deep as the farthest recesses of human nature. Speaking as a layman who has been privileged to know his friendship and encouragement over many years, I venture to say that His Excellency will bring to the entire diocese a stimulus for reaching into the beauty and riches of the faith in order better to serve the mission of the Church.

Attend Sodality Meet

The theme of the general discussion was "It's great to be a Catholic". Father Lord led the discussion, and the Sodality members gave their reasons for being able to make this statement.

In the afternoon after a summarizing speech by Father Lord and an address by Bishop Schulte of Leavenworth, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and a procession in honor of the Blessed Virgin, closed the convention. A social hour followed in the St. Mary's College gymnasium.

the college chorus.

Sarah Lee McNally is noted for her excellent cornet playing by which she has been an asset to the orchestra.

Betty Murphy has been faithfulness personified, during six years at St. Teresa's. At the present time she is our very dependable vice-president.

Lois Nelson had a prominent part in "Ladies in Waiting". She can be classified as one of those conversationalists who never stop.

Mary Jane Sanders was maid of honor to our May Queen. In her year and a half at the college she has endeared herself to her classmates.

Betty Ucker is the tall, thin, sophomore, who is always smiling, and ready for a joke. It seems photography is her hobby.

Mary Ann Wallerstedt has been a boon to the missions during her years as president of the C.S.M.C. She is also Editor of The Teresian. Wally has also had wonderful experience as her brother's keeper. She guarded the lunatic in "Jane Eyre".

Lucy Webber is one of these constant "worriers", especially when report card time is approaching. But for all her worrying she certainly is a good sergeant-at-arms.

Don't Be Among the 20 Per Cent

Out of every five people reaching maturity, one will have defective vision. The cause can often be traced to eye-strain.

Don't take unnecessary chances with your eyes. Be sure to use proper light for close eye tasks and avoid one of the common causes of poor sight.
